Lesson 160 · Investigatory Powers: RIPA 2000, Modern Safeguards and Ethics

Name: _____ Class: _____ Date: _____

Answer four retrieval questions before reviewing earlier learning.

Q1

Does giving attribution automatically permit copying protected software or images?

Q2

Why does the TLS padlock not guarantee a site is honest?

Q3

What is the purpose of an operating system's memory management?

Q4

What is referential integrity?

New Learning · key ideas

The important knowledge from today's lesson. Read, annotate, and explain it.

Core idea 1

OCR historic reference — RIPA 2000 sets out specified investigatory powers and safeguards; provisions have changed over time.

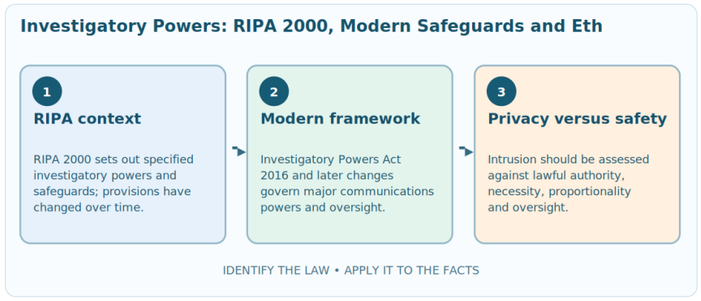

Core idea 2

Current landscape — Investigatory Powers Act 2016 and later changes govern major communications powers and oversight.

Core idea 3

Weigh safeguards — Intrusion should be assessed against lawful authority, necessity, proportionality and oversight. A different OCR requirement, 1.5.2 , considers broader ethical choices: a legally permitted technology can still introduce censorship, biased decisions, intrusive monitoring or avoidable environmental harm.

Question 3

A public authority wishes to inspect communications data during a serious investigation. Assess four issues it must consider before taking action. [8]

Check that you have used the technical terms and explained your decisions.

You Do · independent practice

Answer these selected original questions in BLACK PEN. Other exam tasks remain online.

Question 1

State why RIPA 2000 appears in OCR H446 1.5.1 and name one modern related Act. [6]

Question 2

Explain necessity and proportionality in the context of a proposed surveillance measure. [6]

Check that you have used the technical terms and explained your decisions.

New Learning · applying the ideas

Vocabulary · use the correct technical terms

RIPA 2000 — Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000, historically specified by OCR.

IPA 2016 — Investigatory Powers Act 2016, governing major modern powers.

necessity — Intrusive step is needed for a legitimate legal aim.

proportionality — Intrusion is proportionate to the objective and circumstances.

Check your understanding

Explain one key process in your own words using two of the terms above.

I Do · worked example

Problem

A public authority requests covert interception of communications to investigate a serious threat. Is 'for public safety' alone an adequate legal justification?

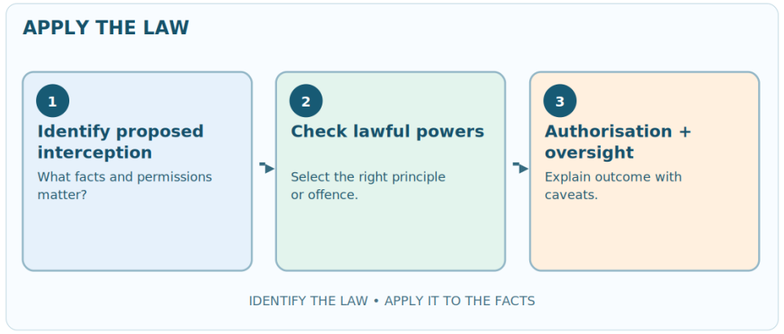

Follow the worked method

1. Identify proposed interception — Identify the relevant facts, purpose and authority.

2. Authorisation + oversight — No. Relevant statutory powers, lawful authorisation, necessity, proportionality and appropriate safeguards/oversight must be considered. Exact procedures depend on activity and legal power. OCR names RIPA 2000, while IPA 2016 now covers major investigatory communications powers.

3. Model a proportionate decision — Publish clear rules, distinguish criticism from harassment, review disputed removals and offer an appeal route. Explain which safeguards are legal obligations and which are additional ethical choices .
