

Lesson 2 - Email & Arbor

Pupil booklet · use this alongside the web lesson

DO NOW · 5 MINUTES

Start from memory

1. Which choice would normally make a password harder to guess?

- ☐ Your first name
- ☐ A mix of upper/lowercase letters, numbers and symbols
- ☐ The word password

2. Which is a sensible Acceptable Use rule?

- ☐ Share passwords with close friends
- ☐ Log off when you finish
- ☐ Use another pupil's account if they say yes

3. Which looks like the school email format shown last lesson?

- ☐ asmith17@synergymat.uk
- ☐ asmith17.synergymat.uk
- ☐ asmith17#synergymat.uk

4. Why should you keep your school password private?

OBJECTIVES

Outlook

Use Outlook to send an email.

Formal email

Create a polite, professional email.

Arbor

Use Arbor to find your homework and follow your teacher's current instructions.

I DO

The four parts of a formal email

Subject	Homework question
Greeting	Dear Mr Johnson,
Body	I was absent last lesson. Please could you tell me what homework I missed? I will catch up as soon as I can.
Sign off	Many thanks, Charlie

To, Cc and Bcc

I DO

To

The main recipient. They are the person expected to read or act on the email.

Cc

Sends a copy to someone who needs to be kept informed.

Bcc

Hides recipients' email addresses from one another, helping protect privacy.

WE DO

Which field would you use?

Scenario 1: You email your teacher with a homework question. The teacher needs to reply.

☐ To ☐ Cc ☐ Bcc

Scenario 2: A student needs to complete some work and their parent should also be kept informed.

☐ To student ☐ Cc parent ☐ Bcc parent

Scenario 3: A teacher emails several parents and does not want parents to see one another's email addresses.

☐ To ☐ Cc ☐ Bcc

Formal or informal?

A. Dear Ms Patel,

Please could you explain the homework again? I was absent yesterday.

Many thanks,
Sam

☐ Formal ☐ Informal

B. Hiya!!!

How's it going? What are you up to later?

See ya!

☐ Formal ☐ Informal

Plan one formal email

Complete this before you press Send.

YOU DO

To
Subject
Greeting
Body
Sign off

Pre-send check

- | | |
|---|---|
| ☐ I chose the correct recipient. | ☐ I used an appropriate sign-off. |
| ☐ My subject tells the reader what the email is about. | ☐ I reread the email before sending. |
| ☐ I used a polite greeting. | ☐ I only used Cc/Bcc if there is a clear reason. |
| ☐ My body is clear and uses full sentences. | ☐ I did not include private information unnecessarily. |

One real email is enough. Your teacher will tell you the recipient and purpose. The website practice lets you rehearse the other examples without filling everyone's inbox.

Reflection

One thing that makes an email professional is:

Arbor, homework and exit check

ARBOR

Using Arbor at home

1

Open the Reepham High School website and use the Student Links area.

2

Use your school account to sign in to the school system.

3

Follow your teacher's current Arbor demonstration to find your homework and any completion steps.

Homework: Log into Arbor at home. Your teacher may also ask you to send a formal email about how you are settling into Reepham High School, clubs you are joining or a subject you are enjoying.

Due: your teacher will confirm.

EXIT QUESTIONING

1. Which field is for the main person expected to act?

☐ To ☐ Cc ☐ Bcc

2. Which field hides recipients' addresses from one another?

☐ To ☐ Cc ☐ Bcc

3. Name two parts of a formal email.

4. Why should you reread a school email before sending?

PRESENTATION

Computing work is usually presented clearly

- Use black or blue ink for written work.
- Cross out mistakes with one clear line.
- Use capital letters and punctuation.

- Use full sentences when appropriate.
- Keep pages in order and in good condition.
- For digital work, use clear headings and crop screenshots neatly.